ADVANCING SCIENCE GLOBALLY

Oldest and largest single life science organization in the world with over 40,000 members in 150+ countries

27 divisions of microbiology including a division for microbiology educators

International programs fostering global engagement, collaboration, and sustainability

Continuing education and professional development programs

State-of-the-art journals and publications

Major meetings and conferences