CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS

In keeping with the motto of this year's Day of Teaching and Learning "Inspiration. Innovation. Impact. #ULvirtuell," we would like to invite you to contribute to a poster and video session.

The unexpected turn of events this semester has meant that many lecturers at Leipzig University have had to change their teaching methods and in the process have tried out new approaches and techniques. Under these particular circumstances, people have come up with a lot of creative ideas. Some initially failed and had to be rethought, while others were successfully implemented from the get-go. We look forward to hearing about your experiences! Key questions for your submission could include the following: How can the University profit from your experiences? What can lecturers and students learn? Are there components of online teaching you are using now that you will continue to use when we are back to regular operations?

The almost 100 teaching and learning projects that have been supported by LaborUniversität and Lehrpraxis im Transfer<sup>plus</sup> in the last ten years were able to test their innovative ideas under more favourable circumstances. As the support for these projects through the Quality Pact of Teaching is coming to an end, we would also like to take the opportunity to present the impact these projects have had at Leipzig University.

The Tag der Lehre will include online poster and video sessions that you can "walk through" the entire day and also access thereafter. There, you will be able to view posters, presentations, and short videos and then discuss your thoughts and ideas with other visitors in a forum.

Send us an outline of your submission (see form) by 18 May 2020 to tag.der.lehre@uni-Leipzig.de (you can also send a preliminary version of your submission). Go here to get a better idea of what a poster session will look like.
