The Faculty of Social Sciences and Philosophy seeks to fill the following professorship at the earliest opportunity:

W2 professorship in “International Relations and Transnational Policies”

The holder of this position will teach and undertake research in the field of international relations and transnational policies. He or she will be expected to participate substantially in teaching on European issues (including foreign affairs of EU Member States and the EU as a whole) and all issues covered by the Saxon examination rules for teachers of social studies, as well as to participate in collaborative research projects of the Institute of Political Science, in the internationalisation of the study programmes of the Institute of Political Science, and in Leipzig University’s interdisciplinary research cluster(s) “Contested Order” and/or “Global Connections and Comparisons”. Applicants should have authored internationally visible publications. Experience in the acquisition of third-party funding is desirable.

The rights and obligations of the job holder are set forth in the Saxon Freedom of Higher Education Act (SächsHSFG) and the Saxon Service Regulations for Higher Education Institutions (DAVOHS). Applicants must meet the requirements of Section 58 SächsHSFG.

Leipzig University is committed to the equality of women and men. Severely disabled persons are encouraged to apply and will be given preference in the case of equal suitability.

Applications with the usual documents – including a detailed CV, a list of previous scholarly work and academic teaching including available records of teaching evaluations, and a certified copy of the certificate of the highest acquired academic degree – should be sent, preferably also in digital format as a single PDF document, by no later than 17 May 2019 to:
