

The Faculty of Mathematics and Computer Science seeks to fill the following junior professorship from 1 April 2021:

W1 Junior Professorship in Statistics

Duties

The successful candidate will be expected to demonstrate:

- a high level of commitment to teaching and to supporting students,
- a successful record of acquiring external funding, and
- a willingness to cooperate with existing research groups at the Institute of Mathematics and the Max Planck Institute for Mathematics in the Sciences.

Requirements

Candidates should have an excellent independent research profile in an active area of mathematical statistics, demonstrated by publications in leading journals, as well as teaching experience.

Junior professorships should be seen as opportunities for further qualification. If the applicant was employed as a research or graduate assistant prior to or after completing their doctorate, then the doctorate and employment phases should have lasted no more than six years in total.

Our offer

The junior professorship is initially limited to three years. It will be extendable by a further three years subject to successful intermediate evaluation according to the Regulations on the Interim Evaluation Procedure for Junior Professors at Leipzig University (ZEvaO).

The job holder's rights and obligations are regulated by the Saxon Freedom of Higher Education Act (SächsHSFG) and the Saxon Service Regulations for Higher Education Institutions (DAVOHS). Applicants must meet the requirements of Sect. 63 SächsHSFG.

Leipzig University is committed to gender equality.

Severely disabled persons are encouraged to apply and will be given preference in the case of equal suitability.
